

Careers In Safety

GOSH Conference 2009

Education Opportunities

OR-OSHA – (online) statewide
Mt. Hood Community College – AAS, certificate
University of Washington (toxicology) - MS
Eastern Kentucky University - (online) certificate, BS, MS
Columbia Southern University - (online) AA, BS, MS
East Carolina University - (online) MS*
Related fields of study: toxicology, industrial hygiene, public health, occupational health, risk management

Association Opportunities

American Society of Safety Engineers (ASSE) www.assecwc.org
National Safety Council www.nsc.org
American Industrial Hygiene Association www.aiha.org
Human Factor and Ergonomics Society www.hfes.org
American Assoc. of Occ. Health Nurses www.aaohn.org
American Conference of Governmental IH www.agcig.org

Professional Designations

Graduate Safety Practitioner GSP
Associate Safety Professional ASP
Certified Safety Professional CSP
Associate of Risk Management ARM
Occupational Health & Safety Technologist OHST
Certified Loss Control Specialist CLCS
Certified Industrial Hygienist CIH

Helpful Resources

National Institute of Occupational Safety & Health www.cdc.gov/NIOSH
Center for Disease Control www.cdc.gov
Naval Safety Center www.safetycenter.navy.mil
Consumer Product Safety Commission www.cpsc.gov
OR-OSHA www.cbs.state.or.us/osha
Federal OSHA www.osha.gov
American Industrial Hygiene Association www.aiha.org

These resources are limited to the best of my knowledge and are far from encompassing all the opportunities out there!

Aubrey Sakaguchi Loss Control Consultant
asakaguchi@sdao.com
(800) 285-5461 office (503) 569-2006 cell
A goal without a plan is just a wish. Antoine de Saint-Exupery

